Chuck:

Enclosed is the memo that you requested on Iraq and an explanation of the inaccuracies that occurred in your recent briefing here at Headquarters on this subject. The staff notes that you requested are still being cleared and I will hopefully have them within the next day or so. Sorry for the delay on this paper and hope this is helpful.

Sincerely,

The DDI analysts who met with you were inaccurate in saying that there had been no specific papers requested of us in connection with the decision to remove Iraq from the list of countries supporting terrorism. There was a paper prepared last fall on Patron State Support for International Terrorism. It was done at the request of the State Department, which specified the countries to be covered, including Iraq. Individual country sections were contributed by analysts in NESAs and other regional offices, and the paper was put together by the Terrorism Center in the Office of Global Issues.
